DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

1. Claims 1-2, 4-5, 7-12, 14-21 and 23-24 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Croft et al. (6,490,439).

Regarding claims 16 and 23-24, Croft discloses an apparatus for optimizing link quality of a wireless piconet device to a user comprising: means for firstly determining at least one aspect of a link quality of a wireless connection to a short range network; and means for providing first indication, wherein the indication is visible, of compliance of at least one aspect of the link quality to the user, wherein the compliance is determined by means for comparing the determined at least one aspect to a pre-configured threshold value optimal communication quality (See figs. 8-9, 11 and col. 8 line 57 to col. 9 line 2, col. 9 line 61 to col. 10 line 3).

Claims 7 and 14-15 are rejected for the same reasons as set forth in claims 16 and 23-24, as method.

Art Unit: 2682

Claims 1 and 4 are rejected for the same reasons as set forth in claims 16 and 23-24.

Regarding claim 17, Croft discloses as cited in claim 16. Croft further discloses the apparatus varies visual indication according to the received signal strength (See fig. 11 and col. 9 line 61 to col. 10 line 3), and the received signal strength varies dependent upon locations of the receiving wireless piconet device; therefore the apparatus inherently comprises means for allowing the user to physically move the wireless piconet device; means for secondly determining at least one aspect of the link quality; and means for providing a second indication of compliance of at least one aspect of the link quality to the user.

Claim 8 is rejected for the same reasons as set forth in claim 17, as method.

Regarding claims 18-19, Croft discloses as cited in claim 16. Croft further discloses the apparatus comprises: a processor coupled to the transceiver, the processor adapted to vary the visual indication; and a memory unit coupled to the processor, the memory unit for storing instructions executed by the processor for varying the visual indication (See fig. 9 and col. 12 lines 28-35). Therefore the apparatus inherently comprises means for generating a Read_RSSI command or a Get_Link_Quality command (command for measuring the signal strength) and means for retrieving a link quality value returned in response to the command.

Claims 9-10 are rejected for the same reasons as set forth in claims 18-19, as method.

Art Unit: 2682

Regarding claim 20-21, Croft further discloses the wireless connection is a piconet connection or a scatternet connection (See fig. 8).

Claims 11-12 are rejected for the same reasons as set forth in claims 20-21, as method.

Regarding claim 2, Croft discloses as cited in claim 1. Croft further discloses the piconet front end conforms to Bluetooth standards. (See figs. 8-9 and col. 8 line 5 to col. 9 line 2).

Regarding claim 5, Croft further discloses the visible user link quality indicator comprises an LED (See col. 10 lines 4-12).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 3, 6, 13 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Croft et al. (6,490,439).

Regarding claim 22, Croft discloses as cited in claim 16. However, Croft does not mention that the indication is audible. Audible indication is well known in the art, therefore it would have been obvious to one ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use audible indication alone or in combination with visual indication for the advantage of expanding the capability of the system to various types of alert modes as well as for allowing the users to set the alert mode in accordance to their intentions.

Claims 13 is rejected for the same reasons as set forth in claim 22, as method.

Claim 3 is rejected for the same reasons as set forth in claim 22.

Regarding claim 6, Croft discloses as cited in claim 4. However, Croft does not mention that the visible user link quality indicator comprises a graphical display.

Graphical display is common in the art, therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use graphical display for the advantage of expanding the capability of the system to various types of display.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

- Bork et al. (US 2002/0010008) discloses wireless communication device having intelligent alerting system.
- Kannis (WO 01/48612) discloses data transmission apparatus.
